

Understanding My Values at Work

What drew me to this work originally – and is that still present?

Where do I feel most energised? What does that tell me about what I value?

Where do I feel most frustrated – and what value might that frustration be protecting?

When I advocate strongly for something, what am I really trying to preserve or create?

What would it look like to honour my values and bring others with you?